The city of Tsukuba has one hundred forty one parks which feature "harmony with man and the city"

Thirty years ago Tsukuba was a typical farming area. Recently, however, a host of research institutes, both government and private, have gathered there to form a new city called "academic city of Tsukuba". In 1987, old six towns and villages merged to the "City of Tsukuba".

It is famous for its abundance of greenery and nature. This is why there are one hundred forty one parks. All of them provide a place of relaxation for residents.

They were formed in complete harmony with the surrounding trees since olden times, local topography and scenery. To begin with, the park authorities studied plant ecology closely and carefully considered the positioning of the parks and the varieties of plants to be planted there. You will vividly see how they have maintained the good old pastorage scenery with the old trees in these parks.

Along with the creation and realignment of the parks, the city of Tsukuba upgraded its roads for special use by pedestrians. These special roads extend 48 kilometers and are surrounded by many trees and flowers. This shows how the city appreciates scent, color of nature and scenery, and the changing seasonal views in harmony with man and the city.

つくばの縦横に伸びた幹線道路には、様々な街路樹がうえられています。通りによってその種類は違い、イチョウ・ユリノキ・トチノキ・ケヤキ・シラカシ・エンジュ・トウカエデ・モミジバフウなど、様々な緑が見られます。四季によって趣を変える街路樹は、都市の一年を美しく彩ってくれます。

It is a city lined with beautiful trees.
